

Alan Flintham in his book “Reservoirs of Hope” refers to the need for :

*‘a variety of replenishment
and sustainability strategies, without which the leader will ‘burn out’ by being unable to sustain hope and energy levels in the face of relentless pressures’*

This programme has arisen from conversations with leaders who have participated in the CLP over the past 13 years.

There is clearly an appetite for refreshing the spirituality, understanding of mission and the network of support experienced during the programme.

One CLP delegate from 2016 wrote: “I wish I could continue having a regular opportunity to engage with a programme that encourages deeper reflection. Indeed I wish the CLP could be on-going for the rest of my career as a support through the difficult

THE POSTGRADUATE CATHOLIC LEADERSHIP PROGRAMME

Who is it for?

Graduates of the CLP who completed the programme 2 or more years previously who are in a senior leadership post in their school.

The Structure of the Programme:

- Four evening sessions with a speaker
- A one-day conference at Liverpool Hope University
- Two residential conferences at Whalley
- At least three one-to-one sessions with a mentor

The 3 sessions of mentoring will involve high quality, open-ended discussions with a serving headteacher or an experienced education professional with a deep understanding of formation.

Start Date:

January 2018

Cost: £800

The focus of both the conferences and evening sessions would be 'food for the journey', making sense of the challenge of Catholic leadership.

There will be opportunities for reading, discussion, interpretation and reflection with peers

We intend to explore the spirituality of leadership using the Emmaus model:

Jesus listened to their experience, accompanied them on the road, engaged in dialogue with them, drew them out, and broke bread with them. He led them to a deeper reality.
